FOR THOSE LOOKING FOR A
NATURAL BIRTH CONTROL:

Thankfully, there is an alternative to putting artificial hormones into your body — which can wreak havoc over decades of use — or is simply not an option for sensitive women. FertileView can help you naturally manage your cycle so that you can avoid conception.

To boot, birth control pills can cost $25-$70 a month, which cost $300-840 a year. FertileView's one-time cost will save you thousands of dollars.

FOR THOSE LOOKING TO ACHIEVE PREGNANCY:

The truth is that fertility procedures cost thousands of dollars. Popular treatments are usually combined to create maximum fertility likelihood so that the clinics themselves maintain and can advertise successful conception rates to gain to new business. Fertility drugs can cost $50-$4,000 per prescription filled. Artificial Insemination averages $700 per insemination. Ovulation induction costs around $1500 per month and in vitro fertilization ranges from $7,000-$15,000. This does not include the preliminary procedures one needs to do (blood work, lab tests, etc.) that can cost up to $10,000, depending on insurance coverage.

Sometimes women self-diagnose fertility problems based on the generalization that all women ovulate on the same days of their cycle. This is simply not true and can cause a panicked frame of mind. FertileView understands the mental anguish that families go through when they are not conceiving within a certain timeframe and recognizes that every woman is unique — helping women manage their individual fertility cycle for optimum conception and peace-of-mind.

FertileView is a transitional methodology that allows you to manage your fertility cycle, switching from avoiding pregnancy to achieving it, and back again — according to your life choices.

HOW FertileView WORKS:

Some current fertility awareness methods include Sympto-Thermal and Mucus observations. However, until now fertility awareness methods have been recorded with tedious paper charting, leaving the users to interpret their own information. This has created additional problems for both the ease of use and for the overall effectiveness.

FertileView is the new chapter in the history of fertility awareness — for both birth control usage or for achieving pregnancy. Novuscor, FertileView's parent company, is the first company to achieve the most comprehensive and complete fertility software solution on the market today. The software keeps track of your information, stores your results and most importantly, interprets the information for you. The most advanced software of its kind, FertileView has met the challenge to empower you with your fertility.

Please note, even though FertileView can be a completely independent methodology, we have seen higher levels of success when users that are trying to achieve pregnancy share their software results regularly with their obstetrician.

FERTILEVIEW OFFERS TWO DIFFERENT SOFTWARE SOLUTIONS...

FertileView ST/Sympto Thermal:

A software fertility management method that combines both basal body temperature with cervical mucus fertility observations.

FertileView MO/Mucus Only:

A software fertility management method that uses cervical mucus fertility observations.

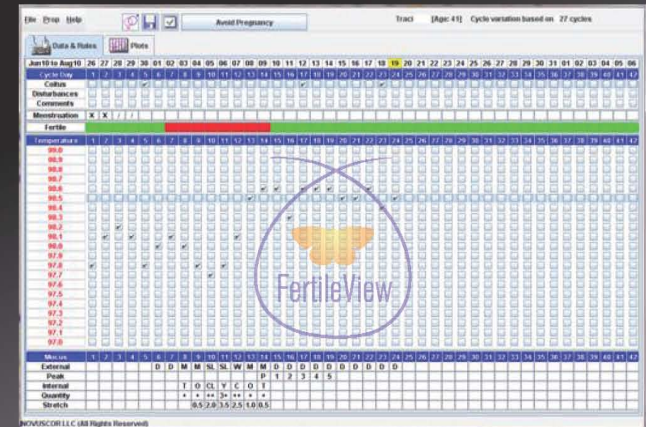

ADDITIONAL SPECIAL FEATURES:

Extra Avoid is a special fertility goal that allows the user to extend the normal Avoid pregnancy algorithms. This option is preferred and utilized in special cases, such as avoiding conception in people who have medical conditions.

WITH FERTILEVIEW, THERE ARE NO SIDE EFFECTS.

The side effects of other birth control methods include, but are not limited to: increased risk for stroke, blood clots and migraine headaches. Worse yet, the side effects of artificial fertility methods include a long list of undesirable symptoms, including death. Take comfort in FertileView's nature-made methodology and friendly customer service, should you need an advocate and support.

HOW TO PURCHASE:

FertileView costs a one-time fee of $399 — phenomenally less expensive than artificial birth control and fertility treatments.

You can purchase directly from your doctor by obtaining an order number card.

Otherwise, visit FertileView.com to pay for and download the software immediately to your computer, and begin use today.
